

Workshop by UNIVARIETY- a career guidance platform

“The best way to predict the future is to create it.”

An orientation session was conducted for the parents and students of Grades IX to XII on 9th Oct’21 by a career guidance platform, Univariety. It is a program backed by scientific research and logic in the process of career planning. The resource person, Ms. Ann George, working as Associate Vice-President – Learning and Development at Univariety conducted the workshop and introduced the career guidance platform to students and the various tools it employs to support the children through their journey from grade IX to the college. Students were strongly recommended to identify their skill and aptitude on the basis of which they should choose the subjects/stream. Other talking points were around conventional vs. unconventional course choices and the correct way of researching before choosing and finalizing the career or profession that students would like to pursue. Students as well as parents showed a keen interest in the program. The session was interactive and was followed by a Q&A.
